

A Lord-able response for Calverton

Lord Ramsbotham inspects the schools' Open Futures programme

Lord David Ramsbotham visited Calverton School to see the impact of the school's Open Future's Programme: Grow It, Cook It, Ask It and Film It.

The visit, in May, was followed by a letter from Lord Ramsbotham in which he said: "I cannot tell you how refreshing it was to find somewhere so vibrant, so positive and, above all, somewhere where the needs of the children were so obviously understood and came first".

Calverton School Business Manger, Sharon Teasdale, said: "It was wonderful recognition to all pupils and staff when the next day a letter was delivered from the House of Lords praising the school staff and pupils for their excellence".

Calverton is one of nine lead schools nationally to join the Open Futures Curriculum Development Partnership. The two year-long programme develops values, practical skills and personal interests that will contribute to pupils' education.

Calverton is implementing the Open Futures programme in four strands: philosophical enquiry skills, growing fruit and vegetables, cooking skills and using multi-media. Staff have received special training to enable them to teach these new subject areas.

Scaling the heights at Sarah Bonnell's

New climbing wall gives school's PE a boost

Sarah Bonnell's has opened its state of the art, specially designed climbing wall.

The wall has already had a great impact on the pupils' PE lessons where they have had to work cooperatively to improve their skills and trust one another to handle ropes properly and help each other whilst climbing.

Designed by Dreams, a company headed by professional climber Scott Muir, the wall features eight different climbs of varying gradients and difficulties and is intended to challenge pupils and utilise wasted space in the school's sports hall.

The school has developed links with Mile End Climbing Wall to provide CPD for Sarah Bonnell staff and maintain the wall and provide ongoing training.

The school hopes to begin a climbing club and said: "This new facility will of course be a great tool when we are assessing students practically within our GCSE PE course".

Eastlea funds literacy projects in local primary schools

London Schools Excellence Fund being shared with Kaizen and Carpenter's

After a successful bid to the London Schools' Excellence Fund, Eastlea Community School are funding literacy projects in several local schools.

Developing the reading methodology

"As we truly believe in enabling the life chances of Newham's young people we made the decision to dedicate the funding to promoting literacy across Key Stages two and three". Said Carlene Rowe, Assistant Principal at Eastlea Community School.

There were 84 applicants for funding and Eastlea was one of only 11 who were successful.

Eastlea are using the funding to implement a teaching reading methodology designed for students identified as having a low reading age. The effectiveness of the methodology in other boroughs though decided Kaizen and Carpenter's on introducing the teaching method in their schools. Collaborating with UEL, Eastlea are covering the costs of training staff.

Deputy Head teacher at Carpenter's Primary School, Bronwen Hook, said that the teachers involved in the project are very excited and are keen to be part of this project which is in line with the ethos of the school. At Kaizen, Barbara Simms, Head of School said she was: "grateful of Eastlea's invitation to be part of the project".

Eastlea will continue to work with primary schools within Newham to enhance the subject knowledge of teachers as well as the reading ability of students.

Primary schools that would like to participate in this project should contact Carlene Rowe at Eastlea: Carlene.ROWE@eastlea.newham.sc.h.uk
